GET BRAINY!

Use these 6 brain-science principles to maximize learning!

Thanks for these tips go to Sharon Bowman

- 1. MOVEMENT tops sitting. Keep blood flowing by integrating movement into learning experiences.
- 2. TALKING tops listening. Remember, the ones doing the most talking generally do the most learning.
- 3. IMAGES top words. Because vision is humans' primary sense, help learners tie content to strong visual images.
- 4. WRITING tops reading. Guide groups to take notes, mindmap, and re-write key points.
- 5. SHORTER tops longer. Break content into memorable chunks and take frequent breaks.
- 6. DIFFERENT tops same. New approaches capture our attention, so keep changing things up.

TRAINER'S TIP!

TAKE A BEAT

As soon as one person answers a question, others stop thinking about it. Give everyone an opportunity to think of a response and jot it on an answer board.

See who's getting it... and who's not!

Encourage participation with dry-erase Quick Response Whiteboards. They are a huge hit with students and educators, because every individual can write an answer, cast a vote, ask a question or offer an opinion. Whiteboards are two-sided and measure 6" x 7¾".

Quick Response Whiteboards

- A. #WBHNB 30 Boards & Erasers, bagged $129.85
B. #WBOD 12 Boards & Erasers, boxed $52.95

Encourage self-expression

Try "whiteboards" that are as colorful as your groups' answers. Dry-erase "Briteboards" add dynamic fun and learning to any event. Two-sided; 6" x 7¾".

"What a great idea!"

~Tammy W

EXCLUSIVE

TRAINER'S TIP!

PUT PEOPLE AT EASE

According to Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs, individuals' lower order needs (physiological, safety and belonging) must be satisfied before they can attend to higher-order needs, like self actualization – so take time to put people at ease!

Save time and money with reusable name tents

The high-quality, two-sided, molded plastic tents let you see names from the front or back of the room. Use standard Dry-Erase Markers and they'll clean up easily, so you can use them again and again. If space is an issue, Mini Table Signs will do the trick!

TRAINER'S TIP!

POSITIVE ATTITUDES AID MEMORY!

We only remember what we take time to think about! Help learners recall their positive feelings and tie those to learning experiences. Positive attitudes can also increase endorphins and reduce the stress hormone, cortisol, which inhibits memory and attention.

TRAINER'S TIP!

MASTERMIND MEMORABLE MOMENTS!

Fidget "toys" aren't just frivolous accessories. They're serious tools that:

1. Engage the "floating attention," which protected us from predators in pre-historic times.
2. Promote a relaxed, playful mindset, conducive to learning.
3. Improve focus, helping kinesthetic learners who need to occupy their hands.
4. Relieve stress, letting us work out nervous energy.
5. Engage multiple areas of the brain, leading to more memorable experiences.

“Beyond Grateful”

I am beyond grateful for Who's First?® v3 Wireless Game Buzzer System w/Light Tower system. The investment is well worth the hours upon hours of fun, learning, and self-discovery for both the students and the trainer!
Easy to use! And it does exactly what it says. Just an awesome treasure added to my teaching repertoire.

Focus on your content, not game logistics!

Reap the benefits of competitive play as teams race to be first to answer your questions. Our Who's First?® Wireless Game Buzzer is an easy-to-use, stand-alone system that adds excitement and camaraderie to any fast-action Q&A game by quickly registering who “buzzed in” first – and second.

- Take the guesswork out of determining who answers first and second
- USB interface works with Gameshow Pro (p 23)
- Accommodate 6 teams or individuals
- Plug it in and it's ready to play; no software needed
- Random team selection
- Optional buzzer sound
- 80-foot wireless range
- Measures 19" H and weighs 3 lbs.

GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR GAME SHOW EXPERIENCE.

- Have teammates consult one another before stating an answer. Or, require them to take turns answering consecutive questions.
- Limit play to 2-5 teams, making it easier for each team to collect points.
- Consider “all-play” formats that get every participant thinking.
- Rely on a buzzer system to eliminate arguments over who rang in first.

Communicate. Collaborate. Reflect.

Challenge blindfolded players to figure out which of the shapes they hold is a duplicate. Success requires clear and concise communication, active listening, and collaboration. Alternatively, use the shapes metaphorically, to draw out learning moments.

Build teams in-person and online!

See how your teams perform under pressure. If they're trapped, can they respond quickly and get themselves to safety? Each escape game challenges groups to communicate, prioritize, and plan. They must organize their time, resources, and talent. Each game takes 1 to 1 ½ hours.

Discover hidden assumptions

Raise awareness about preconceptions and assumptions as small groups work to assemble a seemingly simple jigsaw puzzle. They'll likely start by turning all the pieces "face-up," which is where the learning begins. Contains enough pieces for 4 small groups. Duration: ~10-20 mins.

A team experience as uplifting as helium!

This deceptively simple game is easy to facilitate and gives your group a common experience through which to discuss issues of teamwork and leadership. The stick is 10 feet long and folds to 12", for easy transport. There's no actual helium, but the stick is so light that when large teams try to lower it without losing finger contact, it unexpectedly seems to levitate. Facilitation notes available online.

"Great team-building tool!"

I was wondering how this simple tool would work in a workshop I was facilitating and I was not disappointed. It's portable, easy to use, and the guide gives some great processing questions.

Build bridges and collaborative spirit

The specially notched wooden rods and robust facilitation notes offer plenty of options to make the classic DaVinci Bridge a successful teambuilding experience for all sorts of teams. Equip a "designer" with a picture of the finished product and a "manager" with only the written instructions. Then, with limited team meetings, see how well your groups work together to get it built. Measures 6.5' L x 2' W x 2' H assembled. Weighs 11 lbs.

Build critical communication and listening skills

In this terrific team activity, blindfolded participants hold a collection of colored plastic shapes. Groups must work together to identify the missing piece(s). Colourblind was developed for training Air Traffic Controllers where good communication is a matter of life or death. Success demands effective group management, listening and questioning, plus the ability to solicit and absorb feedback. For groups who have done this activity before, Colourblind Plus offers more challenging shapes. Duration: ~40 mins.

Includes Facilitator guide; for groups of 4-28.

dig into TEAM DYNAMICS

TeamWriter™ requires great coordination!

Challenge teams to draw a shape or write a phrase that's legible. Success requires communication and planning – What will be written? Where should the strings be attached? Where's the top of the page? How can the pen be guided precisely? How do teams "get on the same page"? This simple exercise lends itself to a rich debrief. Includes facilitation notes and marker.

See how teams deal with frustration and disruption

In this team assessment and group challenge players take turns flipping 2 cards at a time, until they reveal 10 cards with all Xs or all Os. It's easy until things don't go as planned and a player turns over a SCRAMBLE card. The short game (10-15 mins) is easy to facilitate and offers loads to debrief and discuss.

"Great for Team Building"

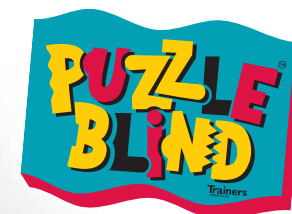

We purchased this to use for our student leadership council. The materials were high quality and sturdy! It came with three balls to create modifications or increase difficulty. Our students loved this activity!
